

Prime Minister

- A. I talked to Roger Boaden in Central Office about how the Party could help Gilly Rayner and I have put them in touch with each other.

Roger wants to help, but of course would like to co-ordinate the timing of an NSPCC sale with Central Office's own sale of their 'caricature'.

We will be arranging a slot in the diary for you to be photographed with Gilly Rayner and the portrait.

- B. Roger told me you had asked about the length served by previous Prime Ministers. Harold Macmillan served six years and nine months. So you do not overtake him until December 1985 which is a long way ahead. It occurred to me that a natural occasion would be your tenth anniversary as Leader of the Party in February next year and if you agree Roger Boaden will time the launch of the CCO 'caricature' for this anniversary. Do you agree?
